Dear mothers, fathers and carers

I would like to wish you all a happy half term holiday. We have had an excellent half term and we are so proud of our children who work hard and are always so enthusiastic about their learning.

I also want to say a few words about the children's safety when we take them on school trips, as a few parents have told us that they are concerned about their children's safety in light of recent events in Manchester.

Luckily such attacks are very rare in the UK, and although it is possible, it is highly unlikely that something like this will happen to us, or to anyone we know. We always do a thorough risk assessment before we take children out of school and we review our arrangements carefully on a regular basis.

Please do not keep your children away from school when there is a trip but come and speak to your child's teacher if you are worried. In addition, we are very pleased for parents to accompany their child's class on a school trip, unless of course the numbers are limited by the trip.

We believe it is important that we continue to take children on trips and offer them opportunities to learn outside the classroom.

See you after the break on Monday 5th June for early work at 8.45.

Happy half term holiday.

Best wishes
